United Kingdom Election Results is a website and e @-@ book written by David Boothroyd , published in 1994 . Boothroyd also wrote The History of British Political Parties , published in 2001 . The website includes material about elections in the United Kingdom , including election results , resources for further information and links to relevant websites . Boothroyd used a minimalist approach for the site 's design , avoiding " flashy graphics " and placing an emphasis on " authoritative unbiased information " .

Boothroyd 's website has been cited by several organisations and authors , including the United Nations Development Programme and the Parliament of Australia . Boothroyd 's site is listed as a resource by the website of the Parliamentary Library of the Parliament of Australia , and the Gilbert + Tobin Centre of Public Law at The University of New South Wales . The Data & Information Services Center of the University of Wisconsin said that Boothroyd maintains " an emphasis on including the entire range of parties " , and The University of York library said that the " site maintained by David Boothroyd provides detailed results data for all UK Parliamentary Elections since 1983 " .

= Contents =

The site contains information and resources related to UK elections , including election results , lists of candidates and maps of election districts . It also contains resources such as links to relevant websites covering politics and those of political parties . In an introduction to the website , Boothroyd writes : " Unlike some other political sites , this site doesn 't go in for minimising the information to ? major parties ? only , using flashy graphics that distract from the content , compromising its impartiality by accepting sponsorship , or including irrelevant party propaganda . On these pages you will find authoritative unbiased information and nothing else . "

Data on parliamentary elections in the UK since 1983 are on the website . It also includes results of the Labour Party National Executive Committee elections , European Parliamentary elections from 1994 onwards , a list of members expelled since the 1660 Restoration , and recent regional elections for the National Assembly for Wales , the Northern Ireland Assembly , and the Greater London Authority . The earliest snapshot of the website in the archival database Internet Archive is from 1996 . The website is located at www.election.demon.co.uk.

Several authors and organisations ? including United Nations Development Programme ( 2004 ) , the Politics and Public Administration Group of the Parliament of Australia ( 2002 ) , and Scott L. Greer ( 2005 ) ? have cited Boothroyd 's website in their works . Oonag Gay and Patricia Leopold used information about parliamentary expulsion from the site in their book Conduct Unbecoming : The Regulation of Parliamentary Behaviour ( 2004 ) ; they wrote , " As the author , David Boothroyd , makes clear , expulsion was no bar to further parliamentary career in the eighteenth century . " The Guardian referenced the site in a 2007 article about politics of education in the UK .

In their 2008 book The Politics of Electoral Systems , Michael Gallagher and Paul Mitchell wrote that Boothroyd 's site " Has detailed results of elections at all levels of government . " The website of the Parliamentary Library of the Parliament of Australia lists Boothroyd 's site as a resource , as does the Gilbert + Tobin Centre of Public Law at The University of New South Wales . The Data & Information Services Center of the University of Wisconsin said that Boothroyd maintains " an emphasis on including the entire range of parties " . RBA ( Rhodes @-@ Blakeman Associates ) website maintained by Karen Blakeman describes Boothroyd 's resource as a " fast @-@ loading , no @-@ nonsense site " . The University of York library said that the " site maintained by David Boothroyd provides detailed results data for all UK Parliamentary Elections since 1983 " . " Scottish Politics " , the website of the Scottish Politics Research Institute , Alba Publishing said , " Those interested in election results and analysis from England & Wales are encouraged to consult David
