Four Egyptian taekwondo practitioners , two men and two women , qualified for the Olympics , all of whom finished first at the African Qualification tournament , except for Abdelrahman Ossama in the men 's 80 kg class , who was second behind Morocco 's Issam Chernoubi . Tamer Bayoumi , a bronze medalist from the 2004 Olympics , was the most successful of the quartet . In the 58 kg class he defeated Nursultan Mamayev of Kazakhstan in the round of 16 before losing in sudden death to Lee Dae @-@ Hoon of South Korea , the eventual silver medalist , in the quarterfinals . In the repechage he was defeated by Thailand 's Pen @-@ Ek Karaket . The only other Egyptian to win a match was Hedaya Malak , in the women 's 57 kg , who overcame Robin Cheong of New Zealand before being defeated by Marlène Harnois of France , an eventual bronze medalist . In his first bout , Ossama lost to Tommy Mollet of the Netherlands in sudden death , while Seham El @-@ Sawalhy , the 2010 and 2012 African champion , was eliminated by Sweden 's Elin Johansson in the round of 16 of the women 's 67 kg class .
