

$= f(i, j)$. For example , each of the entries of the following matrix A is determined by $a_{ij} = i + j$.

<formula>

In this case , the matrix itself is sometimes defined by that formula , within square brackets or double parenthesis . For example , the matrix above is defined as A

$= [i + j]$, or $A =$