At the end of 1891 he was considered by many to be the top two @-@ year @-@ old . During the 1892 season he earned £ 13 @,@ 023 , the second highest of any horse and only bettered by La Fleche . By the time he retired at the end of the 1893 season , he had earned £ 32 @,@ 528 throughout his racing career . This was the third highest of any horse in history , behind only Donovan and Ayrshire . When Orme was at his best , John Porter rated him 7 to 10 pounds inferior to Ormonde , whom Porter also trained . Porter also believed that Orme was a better racehorse at age four than he had been at two and three .

Orme was retired to stud at the end of his four @-@ year @-@ old season , and on 26 October 1893 he left Newmarket for Eaton Stud . His first covering was St. Mary , a daughter of Hermit , which resulted in his first foal ( a chestnut colt ) being born in January 1895 . His stud fee for 1898 was 200 guineas , plus one guinea for the groom . Orme became a successful stallion and was champion sire of Great Britain and Ireland in 1899 , with more than double the winnings of any other sire that year , largely thanks to his son Flying Fox . His son Duke of Westminster was sold for £ 20 @,@ 050 as a two @-@ year @-@ old . His fee was still 200 guineas in 1902 . In total Orme sired 242 winners of races worth a total of £ 122 @,@ 568 .
