

= East Huaxia Road Station =

East Huaxia Road Station ( Chinese : 东华夏路 ) is a station on Line 2 of the Shanghai Metro . Located along the Huaxia Elevated Road , it is between the Middle Chuangxin Road and Chuansha stations on line 2 . It came into operation on April 8 , 2010 as part of an extension from the Guanglan Road station to the Pudong Airport station .

= Location and station layout =

The station is located beneath Third Huaxia Road , between Qingyi Road and the Huaxia Elevated Road . Along Line 2 , it is located between the Middle Chuangxin Road and Chuansha stations . It takes about 20 minutes to ride the train to the Pudong International Airport station , the eastern terminus of the line , and about 70 minutes to the East Xujing station , the west end . The station has three exits , numbered 1 , 4 , and 5 . Exit 1 is branched northeast of the station , south of the Huaxia Elevated Road and east of Third Huaxia Road . Along the northwest side of the station is Exit 4 which is located west of Third Huaxia Road . Exit 5 is located south of Qingyi Road east of the station .

= History =

By early March 2010 , line 2 had been completed through the Guanglan Road station . On April 8 , the line was extended past the station through the Tangzhen , and Middle Chuangxin Road stations , through East Huaxia Road , as well as the Chuansha , Lingkong Road , Yuandong Avenue , and Haitiansan Road stations to the Pudong Airport station , which serves the Shanghai Pudong International Airport . This extension uses four @-@ carriage trains as opposed to the eight @-@ carriage trains used west of Guanglan Road , which serves as the transfer point .