Live Intrusion was filmed at the Mesa Amphitheatre in Mesa , Arizona , on March 12 , 1995 while promoting Divine Intervention on tour . The Machine Head members Chris Kontos and Robb Flynn gave assistance to the band while performing " Witching Hour " , originally recorded by Venom in 1981 . The video was released as a VHS ( Video High Standard ) through American Recordings on October 31 , 1995 . The video features live footage of Slayer and exclusive unseen footage of Slayer on and off the road . The beginning of the video features a portrait of some of Slayer fans , including a picture from the mid @-@ 1990s , about a fan , who had " Slayer " carved onto their forearm . It was directed and produced by Phil Tuckett , with the audio recorded by Sylvia Massy . On August 17 , 2010 , Live Intrusion was remastered and released as a DVD ( Digital Video Disc ) . It was created using the original VHS master and edited the footage with newer technology . The DVD was sold at retail and online for ( USD ) $ 13 @.@ 98 . The DVD was also released in the Slayer Live DVD 3 @-@ Pak , also released on August 17 , 2010 . It was sold for ( USD ) $ 29 @.@ 98 .

Chris Beaumont of Blogcritics recommended the DVD to consumers , giving it three and a half out of five stars . He noted that the audio quality was " pretty strong , " and allows listeners to clearly hear every chord , note , and word that the band outputs , while the crowd noise proves that it is a live video , but is not so loud that it distracts viewers . Beaumont also said that the video 's quality " lacks a lot of the polish that more recent recordings have , " but he later said that he would rather see it in low quality rather than high quality . Chad Bowar of About.com also gave the DVD three and a half out of five stars . He noted that the video is in decent quality , but , due to poor lighting and shaky camera work , he considered the DVD to be " marginal . "
