In Los Angeles , her mother , Galina Jovovich , tried to get acting jobs , but found little success because of language barriers , and eventually resorted to cleaning houses to earn money . Both parents served as cooks and housekeepers for director Brian De Palma . Milla 's father was convicted and imprisoned for participating in an illegal operation concerning medical insurance ; he was given a 20 @-@ year sentence in 1994 , but was released in 1999 after serving five years . According to Milla , " Prison was good for him . He 's become a much better person . It gave him a chance to stop and think . "

Jovovich attended public schools in Los Angeles , becoming fluent in English in three months . In school , she was teased by classmates for coming from the Soviet Union : " I was called a commie and a Russian spy . I was never , ever , ever accepted into the crowd . " At age 12 , Jovovich left seventh grade to focus on modeling , which she had started at age nine . She has said she was rebellious during her early teens , engaging in drug use , shopping mall vandalism , and credit @-@ card fraud . In 1994 , she became naturalized as a U.S. citizen at the age of 19 .

Given her age and beauty , she was often compared to Brooke Shields , another child model @-@ turned @-@ actress who had starred in the original Blue Lagoon . The role was controversial , as Jovovich appeared nude in the film , as had Shields in The Blue Lagoon .. Jovovich co @-@ created and mastered an alien fictional language of over 400 words for her role . She wore a costume that came to be known as the " ACE @-@ bandage " costume ; the body suit designed by Jean @-@ Paul Gaultier was made of medical bandages . The Fifth Element was selected as the opening film for the 1997 Cannes Film Festival and its worldwide box office gross was over $ 263 million , more than three times its budget of $ 80 million . The Fifth Element was often praised for its visual style ; critic James Berardinelli wrote , " Jovovich makes an impression , although her effectiveness has little to do with acting and less to do with dialogue ". Jovovich was nominated for " Favorite Female Newcomer " at the Blockbuster Entertainment Awards and " Best Fight " at the MTV Movie Awards . The film inspired a video game and a planned Leeloo action figure , but the figure was never released due to licensing problems . In a 2003 interview , Jovovich said Leeloo was her favorite role .

In 1998 , Jovovich appeared in Spike Lee 's drama He Got Game , as abused prostitute Dakota Burns ; she acted with Denzel Washington and Ray Allen . Jovovich had accepted the role because she and her brother Marco had been fans of the video game franchise . = = Music career = =

Jovovich had begun working on a music album as early as 1988 , when she was signed by SBK Records after the company heard a demo she recorded . In August 1990 , she asserted in an interview that the then @-@ forthcoming album would be " a mix between Kate Bush , Sinéad O 'Connor , This Mortal Coil , and the Cocteau Twins " . After it was initially presented by SBK strictly as a pop album , Jovovich protested , insisting on using her personal poetry for lyrics and recording her own instrumental material . Jovovich had written the songs when she was fifteen , with the exception of a Ukrainian folk song , " In a Glade " , that she covered . In April 1994 , billed under her first name , she released The Divine Comedy , a title that was a reference to the epic poem by Dante Alighieri of the same name . Jovovich had chosen the title after seeing Russian artist Alexis Steele 's proposed cover artwork sketch for the then untitled album . Jovovich found that the sketch had " all the struggle that I 'm singing about . It IS the divine comedy " . The Divine Comedy was well received by critics , and featured pop @-@ infused traditional Ukrainian folk songs that led to comparisons with musicians Tori Amos and Kate Bush . John McAlley of Rolling Stone called the album " remarkable " , " strikingly mature and rich in invention " , and as featuring " angst @-@ laced poetry with vivid melodies and arrangements that find a common spirit in synth pop , European folk and psychedelic dream rock " .

Jovovich released the track " Gentleman Who Fell " , with an accompanying music video , as the sole single from the album . The music video was originally directed by Lisa Bonet and featured Harry Dean Stanton , but Jovovich was unsatisfied with the results and decided to film another version . The second version of " Gentleman Who Fell " , a homage to Maya Deren 's short film Meshes of the Afternoon (1943) , was subsequently played on MTV . Jovovich toured the United States during most of 1994 to promote the album , opening for Toad the Wet Sprocket and Crash Test Dummies , as well as playing smaller acoustic sets . Jovovich had opted to perform in smaller and more intimate settings , turning down a musical appearance on Saturday Night Live . Jovovich has also been collaborating musically with longtime friend and musician Chris Brenner , who co - wrote with her on the Divine Comedy Album and who was the musical coordinator for the supporting tour . She and Brenner met in 1993 and have since worked together on several ventures . Following The Divine Comedy , she expressed interest in releasing a second album , having had ten songs ready for a future recording that was intended for a Summer 1996 release . Despite the appearance of a lo - fi field recording The People Tree Sessions in 1998 , Jovovich has yet to release a second album .

In May 1999 , Jovovich along with Chris Brenner formed an experimental band called Plastic Has Memory , in which she wrote the songs , sang , and played electric guitar . The band was " [m] uch heavier and darker than the vaguely Ukrainian folk - sounding elements of her first album " and had a similar sound to a grunge and trip hop Portishead . Plastic Has Memory played about a dozen shows in Los Angeles and New York City for a potential Virgin Records album release , one of which Mick Jagger had attended . Though Plastic Has Memory was featured on Hollywood Goes Wild , a benefit celebrity compilation album , the group never formally released a record and is no longer together .

Jovovich has contributed tracks to several of her film soundtracks , including The Million Dollar Hotel (2000) and Dummy (2002) , and has also provided songs for the soundtracks of films in which she has not acted such as Underworld (2003) produced by musician Danny Lohner who was the bass player in Nine Inch Nails for many years . Her song " The Gentlemen Who Fell " was featured on The Rules of Attraction soundtrack in 2002 . In 2001 , Jovovich was one of many celebrities whose vocals were featured in a cover of " We are Family " to raise money for the American Red Cross . She has appeared as guest vocalist on the song " Former Lover " on Deepak Chopra 's album , A Gift of Love II : Oceans of Ecstasy (2002) and Legion of Boom (2004) by The Crystal Method .

Since 2003 , Jovovich has worked with musician Maynard James Keenan , of Tool and A Perfect Circle , on his Industrial side project Puscifer , contributing vocals to the track " REV 22 : 20 " , which was featured on various film soundtracks in its original or a remixed form . As of January , 2009 , she can be heard collaborating with Maynard and Danny Lohner on the Puscifer track called , " The Mission .
