

= Missouri Route 108 =

Route 108 is a short highway in the Bootheel of southeastern Missouri . Its eastern terminus is the Arkansas state line at Arkansas Highway 77 , about six miles (10 km) south of Arbyrd , the only town on the route . Its western terminus is at U.S. Route 412 (US 412) about two miles (3 km) north of Arbyrd . Although signed as an east ? west route , the route follows mostly north ? south roadways . The route was designated in 1930 , and was extended east in 1972 .

= = Route description = =

Route 108 begins at the Arkansas state line in Arkmo , Dunklin County , where the road continues south into that state as Highway 77 . From the Arkansas @-@ Missouri state line , the route heads north as a two @-@ lane undivided road , passing a few homes and businesses in Arkmo before running through farmland . The road continues through rural areas to the southern edge of Arbyrd , where it reaches an intersection with Route 164 . At this point , Route 108 turns east to form a concurrency with Route 164 , with the two routes passing through more fields before running to the south of industry . Route 108 splits from Route 164 by heading north on East Frisco Street , passing homes and a few businesses . Route 108 leaves Arbyrd and heads through more agricultural areas before reaching its eastern terminus at US 412 . In 2012 , Missouri Department of Transportation (MoDOT) calculated 1 @, @ 057 vehicles traveling north of the state line . This is expressed in terms of annual average daily traffic (AADT) , a measure of traffic volume for any average day of the year .

= = History = =

Route 108 was designated in 1930 , connecting from the state line to Route 25 . The road was already paved in gravel . Three years later , Route Y was designated , and it connected from Route 108 in Arbyth to Caruth . In 1936 , Route 108 was repaved in concrete . By 1953 , Route 25 was rerouted into Arbyrd , becoming the terminus of Routes 108 and Y there . Route 164 was designated in 1956 , replacing a large section of Route Y from Route 108 to Route N. Fifteen years later , Route 25 was rerouted to the west , and the old alignment , from Route 246 , through Arbyrd , became part of Route 108 . Around 1983 , US 412 was designated , replacing Route 25 from Kennett to the state line .

= = Major intersections = =

The entire route is in Dunklin County .