= Dartmouth College Greek organizations =

Dartmouth College is host to many Greek organizations, and a significant percentage of the undergraduate student body is active in Greek life. In 2005, the school stated that 1 @,@ 785 students were members of a fraternity, sorority, or coeducational Greek house, comprising about 43 percent of all students, or about 60 percent of the eligible student body. Greek organizations at Dartmouth provide both social and residential opportunities for students, and are the only single @-@ sex residential option on campus. Greek organizations at Dartmouth do not provide dining options, as regular meals service has been banned in Greek houses since 1909.

Social fraternities at Dartmouth College grew out of a tradition of student literary societies that began in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. The first social fraternities were founded in 1842 and rapidly expanded to include the active participation of over half of the student body. Fraternities at Dartmouth built dedicated residence and meeting halls in the early 1900s and in the 1920s, and then struggled to survive the lean years of the 1930s. Dartmouth College was among the first institutions of higher education to desegregate fraternity houses in the 1950s, and was involved in the movement to create coeducational Greek houses in the 1970s. Sororities were introduced to campus in 1977. In the early 2000s, campus @-@ wide debate focused on whether or not the Greek system at Dartmouth would become " substantially coeducational ", but most houses retain single @-@ sex membership policies.

Currently , Dartmouth College extends official recognition to sixteen all @-@ male fraternities , nine all @-@ female sororities , and three coeducational fraternities . The Greek houses are largely governed through three independent councils , the Interfraternity Council , the Panhellenic Council , and the Coed Council . Dartmouth College has two cultural interest fraternities , and two cultural interest sororities , which do not participate in the major governing councils , but are member organizations of national associations . A chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa honor society is active , but there are no professional fraternities with active chapters at Dartmouth College .

= = History = =

Social fraternities at Dartmouth College grew out of a tradition of student literary societies that began in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries . The first such society at Dartmouth , the Social Friends , was formed in 1783 . A rival organization , called the United Fraternity , was founded in 1786 . A chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was established at Dartmouth in 1787 , and counted among its members Daniel Webster , class of 1801 . These organizations were , in large part , the only social life available to students at the college . The organizations hosted debates on a variety of topics not encountered in the curriculum of the day , and amassed large libraries of titles not found in the official College library . Both the Social Friends and the United Fraternity created libraries in Dartmouth Hall , and met in a room called Society Hall inside Dartmouth Hall . In 1815 , the college decided to intervene in the hotly contested recruitment battle between the Social Friends and the United Fraternity by restricting each society to recruit only from separate halves of the new student class . In 1825 , the college began simply assigning new students to one society or the other . Interest in the literary societies declined in the 1830s and 1840s . The College library and instructional curriculum had expanded to include much of what the literary societies had supported , and new Greek letter societies began to appear on campus .

In 1841 , two factions of the United Fraternity split off from the literary society . One of the new societies called itself Omega Phi and on May 10 , 1842 , obtained a charter as the Zeta chapter of Psi Upsilon . The other faction to split from the United Fraternity organized itself on July 13 , 1842 , as Kappa Kappa Kappa , a local fraternity . More Greek organizations were founded , and by 1855 , 64 % of students , mostly upperclassmen , were members of the Greek letter societies on campus . Initially , the original Greek letter societies would not extend invitations of membership to first year students . Two separate Greek letter organizations were created exclusively for freshmen : Kappa Sigma Epsilon and Delta Kappa . These societies would dissolve in 1883 , when the fraternities of the upper classes began to pledge freshmen . A chapter of Phi Beta Kappa survived at Dartmouth , but by the 1830s had established its role as a strictly literary society by dropping requirements of secrecy for membership and activities . The new , social Greek organizations distinguished themselves from Phi Beta Kappa and the previous literary societies in several ways . The new fraternities were self @-@ selective and exclusive . Each organization developed its own secret rituals and procedures . Most of the societies began to invest in creating their own meeting halls , either upstairs rooms in buildings on Main Street , or free @-@ standing structures near campus . There were 11 active Greek organizations at Dartmouth College in 1900 . [a]

= = = Expansion of the fraternity system = = =

The fortunes of the fraternity system at Dartmouth followed a boom and bust pattern in the early twentieth century . Several organizations purchased frame houses or built their own between 1898 and 1907 , including Beta Theta Pi , Kappa Kappa Kappa , Phi Delta Alpha , and Psi Upsilon . The economic expansion of the 1920s created a boom in the fortunes of the fraternities , allowing many to build new brick residences near campus , including Zeta Psi , Kappa Kappa Kappa , Phi Sigma Kappa , Sigma Nu , Sigma Alpha Epsilon , Chi Phi , Theta Delta Chi , Phi Gamma Delta , Sigma Chi , Gamma Delta Chi , and Delta Tau Delta . It was during this period that Webster Avenue developed as " fraternity row " . The new residences were built without significant dining facilities , as the Trustees of the college had banned fraternities from serving regular meals in their chapter houses and had limited the number of resident brothers by the fall semester of 1909 . College administrators also challenged the fraternities to become more engaged in College life and less focused on their fraternity life during this time . College President Ernest Martin Hopkins personally decided to abolish freshman rush in 1924 .

As did the nation , fraternities at Dartmouth went through difficult times during the Great Depression . The decade of the 1930s saw almost no building projects at all in the fraternity system , and many houses could no longer afford regular maintenance . One of the great tragedies at Dartmouth College occurred on a winter night in 1934 , when nine members of Theta Chi died from carbon monoxide poisoning after a metal chimney on a dilapidated coal furnace in the basement of the chapter house broke in the night . In 1935 , Dartmouth historian and professor Leon Burr Richardson asserted in a survey that , in light of the national suffering , the fraternity chapters should ask themselves if they had " any excuse for existence . " Four fraternities dissolved during the Great Depression ( Alpha Sigma Phi , Alpha Tau Omega , Lambda Chi Alpha , and Sigma Alpha Mu ) , and two ( Phi Kappa Sigma and Alpha Chi Rho ) merged to pool scarce resources in order to survive . All of the surviving fraternities closed for the duration of World War II , as the campus was largely ( although not exclusively ) used to educate , train , and house Navy sailors and Marines in the V @-@ 12 Navy College Training Program .

The fraternities of Dartmouth College were directly involved in the African @-@ American Civil Rights Movement of the 1950s . In 1952 , the Dartmouth chapter of Theta Chi was derecognized by its national over a dispute regarding minority membership . The Dartmouth chapter reorganized as a local fraternity named Alpha Theta . A campus @-@ wide referendum held in 1954 on the issue of desegregation of fraternities resulted in a majority in favor of requiring fraternities on campus to eliminate racially discriminatory membership policies by the year 1960 , and to secede from national groups that retained such policies in their charters . This became a binding obligation imposed on the fraternities by the college administration , and several fraternities at Dartmouth dissociated from their national organizations , including the chapters of Phi Sigma Kappa (1956), Delta Tau Delta (1960), Phi Delta Theta (1960), Sigma Chi (1960), and Sigma Nu (1963).

National social changes also affected Greek societies at Dartmouth in the 1960s and 1970s . Many began to question the value of belonging to a national fraternal organization . The Dartmouth chapters of Chi Alpha Rho , Chi Phi , Delta Upsilon , Phi Gamma Delta , Phi Kappa Psi , and Sigma Phi Epsilon all disaffiliated from their national fraternities in the 1960s . As political activism increased , fraternities were increasingly seen as anachronistic , and in 1967 , the faculty voted 67 @-@ 16 to adopt a proposal to abolish fraternities at Dartmouth . The proposal was rejected by the Board of Trustees .

Coeducation would dramatically change all social life at Dartmouth College , including the fraternity system . The college first began admitting women as full @-@ time students in 1972 . By the fall of 1973 , five local fraternities ( Alpha Theta , Foley House , The Tabard , Phi Tau , and Phi Sigma Psi ) had all decided to adopt a coeducational membership policy and admit women as full members . The first sorority on campus , Sigma Kappa , was founded in 1977 . Many alumni expressed strong concerns that the need for housing for new sororities would inevitably lead to financial pressure and the possible dissolution of existing fraternities at the college . In response , the Trustees imposed a moratorium limiting the campus to no more than six recognized sororities . Converting from an all @-@ male to a coeducational membership policy was not enough to save at least one Greek organization on campus . In 1981 , the Harold Parmington Foundation reorganized itself as a new coeducational fraternity Delta Psi Delta , but the organization never attracted many new members and was finally forced to dissolve in the spring of 1991 . In addition , Foley House disassociated from the Greek system in fall 1984 , transitioning into an affinity house as part of the college 's residential living programs . It moved off Webster Avenue to a new location on West Street ( where it is still in operation as of the 2013 @-@ 14 academic year ) .

During the 1980s and 1990s, College administrators introduced new initiatives to hold the Greek organizations on campus more accountable for their actions and to offer more social alternatives to the predominantly single @-@ sex Greek system. In 1982, the administration announced that Greek organizations would have to comply with a set of " minimum standards ", enforced through annual reviews, in order to remain in good standing with the college. These standards included not only health and safety regulations regarding the conditions of the Greek houses, but requirements for Greek @-@ sponsored activities deemed beneficial to the college community at large. The College introduced Undergraduate Societies to campus in 1993, as a residential and social alternative to Greek organizations. Similar to the Greek houses in many respects, Undergraduate Societies were required to have open, coeducational membership policies. Panarchy voted to change its status to an undergraduate society and was joined the following year by a newly formed society, called Amarna. In the fall of 1993, Student Assembly President Andrew Beebe, class of 1993, argued in favor of the coeducation of the entire Greek system in his remarks at fall Convocation. During that same academic term, College President James O. Freedman predicted that the Greek system at Dartmouth would be coeducational within 10 years.

In 1999, the college administration announced a "Residential and Social Life Initiative" to improve campus life. Speculation that all single @-@ sex fraternities and sororities would be required to adopt coeducational membership policies led to intense campus debate. In a survey conducted by The Dartmouth newspaper, 49 % of the student body responded, and 83 % of those respondents were in favor of retaining a single @-@ sex Greek system at Dartmouth. In a December, 2006 interview, College President Jim Wright admitted that it had been "a serious mistake "to announce the Student Life Initiative in the manner in which it was presented to the campus, but expressed that in his opinion, "the Greek system at Dartmouth now is stronger than it is ever been."

= = Fraternities = =

The single @-@ sex male @-@ only fraternities at Dartmouth College are largely organized and represented to the college through the Interfraternity Council ( IFC ) . The Interfraternity Council is a student @-@ led governance organization that assists the member Greek organizations with finances , public relations , programming , judicial administration , recruitment , and academic achievement . Alpha Phi Alpha is not a member of the IFC , but is a member of the National Pan @-@ Hellenic Council . Lambda Upsilon Lambda is also not a member of the IFC , but is a member of the National Association of Latino Fraternal Organizations .

The Theta Zeta chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha was founded as the first historically African @-@ American fraternity at Dartmouth College in 1972. The first members of the fraternity traveled to Boston, Massachusetts on the weekends of the 1971 spring academic term to attend pledge events at the Sigma chapter. The Dartmouth chapter was chartered as the 381st chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha on May 12, 1972. Early chapter meetings on campus were held in both the Choates dormitories and Cutter @-@ Shabazz Hall. The fraternity secured their own house in 1982, a duplex structure that, since renovated, today houses the Delta Delta Delta sorority. Facing smaller membership, the fraternity decided to relocate to a smaller house near the western end of Webster Avenue in the late 1980s, and in 1992, the fraternity again relocated to College @-@ owned apartment housing. The Dartmouth chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha sponsors an annual step performance known as the Green Key StepShow. Notable alumni of the chapter include National Football League all @-@ star Reggie Williams, class of 1976, and current Executive Vice President of Baseball Operations in Major League Baseball, Jimmie Lee Solomon, class of 1978.

= = = Alpha Chi Alpha (???) = = =

Alpha Chi Alpha ( " Alpha Chi " ) was founded in 1956 as the Phi Nu chapter of Alpha Chi Rho , a national fraternal organization . A previous Phi Nu chapter of Alpha Chi Rho at Dartmouth had merged with the Kappa chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma in 1935 to become Gamma Delta Chi , a local fraternity still in existence at Dartmouth . The second Phi Nu chapter of Alpha Chi Rho is unrelated to the first chapter . The men of Alpha Chi Rho again broke away from the national group in 1963 and became a local fraternity named Alpha Chi Alpha . The Dartmouth chapter objected to a clause in the national fraternity organization 's constitution that required all Alpha Chi Rho brothers to " accept Jesus as their lord and savior . " The land and house used by the Alpha Chi Alpha fraternity are owned by the college . Dartmouth invested $ 1 @ . @ 3 Million in renovations completed in the fall of 2004 , which included the razing of the " Barn " structure that was used as social space by the brothers of Alpha Chi Alpha to make way for a new expanded basement and main floor area . Renovations on the Alpha Chi Alpha physical plant were completed in 2005 .

= = = Dartmouth Beta (???) = = =

Dartmouth Beta ( " Beta " ) was founded in 1858 as a local fraternity at Dartmouth 's Chandler Scientific School named Sigma Delta Pi . This was the second Chandler fraternity and the seventh fraternity founded at the college . The fraternity changed its name to Vitruvian ( a tribute to the Roman architect Vitruvius ) in 1871 and later established two short @-@ lived chapters at other schools . In 1889 , the local brotherhood decided to join a national fraternity and the organization soon became the Alpha Omega chapter of Beta Theta Pi . It built a house ( now South Fairbanks Hall ) designed by Beta graduate Charles A. Rich of Lamb & Rich in 1904 , and it built its second house on Webster Avenue in 1933 .

Notable alumni of the organization include but are not limited to: former US Representative from New Hampshire Frank G. Clarke, author Norman Maclean, former Governor of New Hampshire Walter R. Peterson ' 47, businessman Alan Reich ' 52, former Dartmouth President David T. McLaughlin ' 54, owner of the Cincinnati Bengals Mike Brown ' 57, founder of the Big East Conference Dave Gavitt ' 59, former Athletic Director of Syracuse University Jake Crouthamel ' 60, member of College Football Hall of Fame and Chief Executive Officer of the Hanover Company Murry Bowden ' 71, professional poker player Chip Reese ' 73, Politician Joel Hyatt ' 72, US Congressman John Carney ' 78, college football coach Buddy Teevens ' 78, former NFL football coach Dave Shula ' 81, former NFL quarterback Jeff Kemp ' 81, Olympic skier Tiger Shaw ' 85, former NFL quarterback Jay Fiedler ' 94, and actor Brian J. White ' 96.

Beta Theta Pi was suspended by the college on three occasions in the 1990s. An incident of hazing in 1994 led to a year @-@ long period of derecognition. In the summer of 1995, a member of Beta Theta Pi read a poem aloud during a house meeting that was deemed to be racist and sexist

, and resulted in many calling for derecognition of the fraternity . In 1996, a Coed Fraternity Sorority Council judiciary committee found Beta Theta Pi guilty of six violations of college and fraternity policies . The College derecognized Beta Theta Pi permanently on December 6, 1996. The Hanover Police Department reported that the brothers of Beta Theta Pi did an estimated $ 15 @,@ 000 in damage to the property soon after hearing of the permanent derecognition decision. It returned to campus as a local fraternity, Beta Alpha Omega, in the fall of 2008.

 = = Bones Gate (BG) = = =

Bones Gate ( "BG " ) was founded in 1901 as the Gamma Gamma Chapter of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity . In 1960 the Gamma Gamma chapter dissociated from Delta Tau Delta when the national organization sought to officially bar minorities from membership . The new local fraternity at Dartmouth went unnamed until 1962 , when the brothers adopted the name "Bones Gate "after an English tavern well @-@ known to the members . Well known television director and BG alumnus Tucker Gates founded the Earl Anthony Appreciation Society in the basement tube room during the winter of 1982 , combining two of his favorite activities ; watching the Pro Bowlers Tour on TV and drinking Budweiser from a quart bottle . In the summer of 2005 , the Bones Gate residence underwent significant structural renovations to bring the building up to the college 's minimum standards . Improvements included an enclosed fire escape running from the basement to the third floor , a new bathroom on the ground floor , and the rehabilitation of all other bathrooms . The brothers of Bones Gate strive to live by their credo of welcoming friends to their house : " This Gate Hangs High and Hinders None . Refresh , Enjoy and Travel On . "

= = = Gamma Delta Chi (???) = = =

Gamma Delta Chi ( " GDX " ) can trace its history to two fraternities on the Dartmouth College campus, Phi Kappa Sigma and Alpha Chi Rho. Gamma Delta Epsilon, a local fraternity, was founded in 1908, disbanded in 1912, but was reformed in 1921. In 1928, the Gamma Delta Epsilon house sought to establish itself as a chapter of a national fraternity and obtained a charter from the Phi Kappa Sigma national fraternity, becoming its Kappa Chapter. Epsilon Kappa Alpha, was established as a local fraternity on the Dartmouth campus in 1915. As with Gamma Delta Epsilon, Epsilon Kappa Alpha sought to become a chapter of a national fraternity and was granted a charter as the Phi Nu chapter of Alpha Chi Rho in 1918. The Dartmouth chapters of Alpha Chi Rho and Phi Kappa Sigma found themselves in similar financial situations in 1934. Both chapters owned prime lots near campus that lacked adequate residential structures . The two fraternities decided to share their resources and in 1935 merged to become a new local fraternity, Gamma Delta Chi . The lot formerly owned by Alpha Chi Rho was sold to the Church of Christ at Dartmouth where a new church building was constructed, and the revenue from the land sale supported the construction of a new house at Gamma Delta Chi 's current location . ( The Alpha Chi Rho national fraternity would later re @-@ establish a Phi Nu chapter at Dartmouth in 1956 as a separate fraternity from Gamma Delta Chi . This second Phi Nu chapter would dissociate from the Alpha Chi Rho national in 1963 to become a local fraternity named Alpha Chi Alpha . ) In the 1960s Gamma Delta Chi was especially well known for its antique fire engine, which transported brothers and their dates to football games; and for its Sunday morning fogcutter parties, open to all who had survived the previous night 's activities.

= = = Theta Delta Chi (???) = = =

Theta Delta Chi ( " Theta Delt , TDX " ) was founded at Dartmouth College in 1869 as the Omicron Deuteron chapter of the national fraternity , and was the eighth fraternity founded at Dartmouth . Theta Delta Chi was the scene of a famous murder in June , 1920 . Henry Maroney , class of 1920 , was shot to death in his room at Theta Delta Chi by Robert Meads , class of 1919 . Meads was reportedly the central figure in a large @-@ scale bootlegging operation at the college during the early years of Prohibition . An already intoxicated Maroney reportedly stole a quart of Canadian whisky from Meads . Later that same night , Meads found Maroney in his room at the fraternity and shot him through the heart . Meads was convicted of a lesser charge of manslaughter and given a sentence of 15 to 20 years hard labor . The sensational murder is reportedly the source of the nickname given to the Theta Delta Chi residence : the "Boom Boom Lodge" . Theta Delta Chi has several distinguished alumni , including Robert Frost , who attended Dartmouth for a time in 1892 .

= = = Kappa Kappa (???) = = =

Kappa Kappa ( "Tri @-@ Kap " ) is a local fraternity founded on July 13 , 1842 . Currently , it is the oldest local fraternity in the nation and the second permanent Greek @-@ letter fraternal society established at Dartmouth College . The organization has no affiliation with the Ku Klux Klan , which was founded after Kappa Kappa Kappa was founded and unfortunately adopted the Latin initials "KKK " , similar to the Greek alphabet letters Kappa Kappa Kappa . According to legend , Kappa Kappa Kappa sued the Ku Klux Klan for defamation of name , but lost because the judge ruled that the similarity in the initials of the organizations was sheer coincidence . Kappa Kappa Kappa was the first society at Dartmouth to have a freestanding fraternity building in Hanover and one of the first in the country . Some prominent alumni include Channing Cox ( 1901 ) , Dr. Bob , ( 1902 ) Nick Lowery ( 1978 ) , Paul Donnelly Paganucci ( 1953 ) , and Peter Robinson ( 1979 ) .

= = = Lambda Upsilon Lambda (???) = = =

Lambda Upsilon Lambda , known more formally as La Unidad Latina , Lambda Upsilon Lambda Fraternity , Inc. was established at Dartmouth in 1997 . The Psi Chapter of Lambda Upsilon Lambda is the college 's first historically Latino fraternity . The fraternity has no physical plant . Lambda Upsilon Lambda sponsors Noche Dorada , an annual semi @-@ formal dinner that features a guest speaker invited to the campus to address issues of Latino culture . The fraternity also supports the Brazil Project , in conjunction with the Sigma chapter at Wesleyan University , which supports thirteen families in Brazil .

= = = Sigma Phi Epsilon (???) = = =

Sigma Phi Epsilon ( " Sig Ep " ) at Dartmouth College was founded on April 22, 1908, as the local fraternity Omicron Pi Sigma . In 1909 , the local fraternity became New Hampshire Alpha Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon. By the late 1960s, the house had become disenchanted with the national organization and felt that the Dartmouth membership would be better served as a local fraternity. The brothers voted to dissociate from the national organization on January 18, 1967. A vote of the alumni of the New Hampshire Alpha chapter on February 1, 1967, supported the decision. The new local fraternity adopted the name Sigma Theta Epsilon (which was also used by an unrelated national fraternity). The Sigma Phi Epsilon national continued to communicate with the local Sigma Theta Epsilon fraternity at Dartmouth, and by 1981 was willing to offer significant financial support for building renovations in exchange for reaffiliation. Convinced that the national organization had reformed in its commitment to the individual chapters, the local fraternity voted to rejoin Sigma Phi Epsilon on February 18, 1981. The national Sigma Phi Epsilon organization is known for its Balanced Man Program, an ongoing program of development through which members challenge themselves and to use their different talents and backgrounds to help each other become balanced men ( having a Sound Mind in a Sound Body ) and balanced servant leaders for the world 's communities. Members of Sigma Phi Epsilon become members the moment they join the fraternity, without having to endure a traditional pledge period. However, they commit to taking on a series of personal and leadership development challenges for the rest of their time as an undergraduate. The New Hampshire Alpha Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon was actually the first chapter to adopt the Balanced Man Program . Prominent alumni of the New Hampshire Alpha chapter include Theodor S. Geisel, class of 1925, better known as " Dr. Seuss " and former Chairman of Dartmouth 's Board of Trustees and CEO of Freddie Mac, Charles E. Haldeman.

 = = Sigma Nu (??) = = =

Sigma Nu ( " Sig Nu " ) at Dartmouth College was originally formed in 1903 as the Pukwana Club, an organization that was created as a reaction to the perceived elitism of Greek organizations at the time. The club? s concept was based on the love for the traditions of Dartmouth, faithful friendship , and honorable dealings . In 1907, the Pukwana Club joined the national fraternity system after it received a charter to become the Delta Beta chapter of Sigma Nu . Sigma Nu ? s " Way of Honor " principle was very similar to the principles expressed in the Pukwana Club? s original charter. The first residence for Sigma Nu at Dartmouth was purchased and refurbished in 1911. Known as the Green Castle, it served as chapter headquarters until the current house was built in 1925. In response to the national fraternity? s segregationist membership policies, the fraternity went local in 1963, becoming Sigma Nu Delta. In 1984, after the national fraternity's policies were changed, the fraternity reaffiliated with the national . In the summer of 2007 , the Sigma Nu residence underwent significant structural renovations to bring the building up to the college 's minimum standards and improve living facilities. Improvements included an enclosed fire escape running from the first floor to the third floor, a redone kitchen and bathroom, new flooring, a new study room, and alterations to bedrooms. Prominent alumni include acting Solicitor General of the United States Neal Katyal '91.

= = = Phi Delta Alpha (??A) = = =

Phi Delta Alpha ( " Phi Delt " ) was founded in 1884 as the New Hampshire Alpha chapter of Phi Delta Theta, a national fraternity. Early meetings of the fraternity were held in the Tontine Building on Main Street . The meeting location moved to the Currier Building in 1887 when the Tontine Building burned down. Phi Delta Theta began construction on a new house in 1898, and the building was completed in 1902, designed by Charles Rich of Lamb & Rich. In January 1960, the Dartmouth chapter broke away from the national because the national would not allow minorities to pledge the house. The new, local fraternity replaced the last letter in its name with Alpha. In March 2000, the fraternity was derecognized by the college. One of the primary reasons for the punishment was that four members of Phi Delta Alpha started a fire in the Chi Gamma Epsilon basement next door . Rig . Under the leadership of Gig Faux , class of 1984 , Phi Delta Alpha applied to the college for rerecognition in fall 2002. The first rush class was formed in the winter of 2003 . Current General Electric Chief Executive Officer , Jeffrey Immelt , class of 1978 , is a former president of Phi Delta Alpha. Other influential alumni include current Dartmouth trustees R. Bradford Evans ' 64 and William W. Chi Gamma Epsilon ( " Chi Gam " ) was founded in 1905 as the Gamma Epsilon chapter of Kappa Sigma , a national fraternity . The Dartmouth chapter dissociated from the national fraternity in 1987 . The disputes with the national organization were primarily over the amount of loans the national organization could offer the local chapter . Initially , the new local fraternity adopted the name Kappa Sigma Gamma , but the national fraternity took offense to the likeness of the names . After a period simply being known by its address , 7 Webster Avenue , the fraternity came upon the name by which it is now known . Chi Gamma Epsilon made national headlines in 1998 for co @-@ sponsoring a " ghetto " theme party with the sisters of Alpha Xi Delta sorority that many found to be offensive for its racial stereotypes of African @-@ Americans . Several Chi Gamma Epsilon / Kappa Sigma alumni brothers found fame in Major League Baseball careers , including all @-@ star

This was short @-@ lived ; in 1987 , because of damage done to the house that the college insisted upon having repaired for safety reasons but the Chi Phi national refused to help finance , the Dartmouth brotherhood again opted to become a local fraternity . In its second incarnation as a local fraternity , the brotherhood chose the name Chi Heorot . The Zeta Chapter of Psi Upsilon International Fraternity ( " Psi U " ) was founded at Dartmouth in 1842, the first fraternity at Dartmouth College . In 1907, Psi Upsilon built the wood frame house it still occupies , designed by noted New Jersey theater architect and Dartmouth alumnus Fred Wesley Wentworth . Several additions during the latter half of the twentieth century greatly improved the structure, which houses around twenty brothers each year . The house most recently underwent substantial renovations during the spring of 2006 . F. Scott Fitzgerald famously enjoyed the 1938 Winter Carnival in the Psi Upsilon chapter house . The Zeta chapter creates an ice pond in its yard every winter and is known as the "keg jumping fraternity" for its most @-@ popular Winter Carnival activity . Prominent alumni of the Zeta chapter of Psi Upsilon includes former United States Vice President Nelson Rockefeller ' 30 , and billionaire hedge fund manager of Lone Pine Capital , Steve Mandel ' 78 .

Zeta Psi ( " Zete " ) at Dartmouth College was founded in 1853 as the Psi Epsilon chapter of the national fraternity, and was the fifth fraternity founded at the college. The fraternity became inactive in 1863, but was revived from 1871 through 1873 after which it again became inactive. The current Psi Epsilon Chapter of Zeta Psi at Dartmouth was established in 1920. In 2001, the Dartmouth chapter was derecognized by the college because " the fraternity harassed specific fellow students and violated ethical standards that Dartmouth student organizations agree to uphold, by periodically creating and circulating among Zeta Psi members ' newsletters ' that purported to describe situations, some of them of a sexual nature, of various members of the fraternity and other students . " Zeta Psi , meanwhile , countered that " nothing could be further from the truth ... Dartmouth College lacks jurisdiction to punish Psi Epsilon of Zeta Psi 's for alleged violations of its own rules or regulations, " . From 2001 to 2006, Zeta Psi continued to operate as an independent fraternity, not officially recognized by Dartmouth College. In January 2007, Dartmouth College announced an agreement that would allow Zeta Psi to reorganize on campus as early as 2009. Part of the agreement dictated that the organization " go dark ", with no activities or recruiting, for a period of two years. During these two years, alumni raised millions of dollars and the physical plant was entirely gutted and renovated, with a three @-@ story addition being constructed on the west @-@ side of the house . Also , the basement was enlarged . On October 12 , 2009 , the Psi Epsilon Association of Zeta Psi Fraternity ( Dartmouth Zete 's alumni association ) announced that 35 undergraduates had joined the newly re @-@ recognized fraternity . Epsilon Kappa Theta ( " EKT , " " Theta " ) at Dartmouth College was founded in January 1982 as the Epsilon Kappa colony of the Kappa Alpha Theta national sorority . Epsilon Kappa was the 100th colony of the sorority . The sorority initially met in a wide variety of locations , including the basement of the college president 's house . In 1984 , the sorority moved into Brewster Hall , a College @-@ owned house that had previously been used as an International House and later as temporary housing for the Alpha Chi Omega sorority . In 1992 , the sisters of the Epsilon Kappa chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta found the strict national rules and the primarily Christian religious readings and rituals of the organization to be antithetical to the spirit of feminism and inclusivity that the chapter desired . The national organization was unhappy with the colony 's decision to disobey their rules and their failure to follow the sorority 's rituals . On May 4 , 1992 , the Dartmouth chapter notified the Kappa Alpha Theta national organization of its unanimous vote to disaffiliate and become a local sorority . The national organization revoked the charter of Epsilon Kappa . The Dartmouth women chose the new name Epsilon Kappa Theta residence is a Victorian house over 100 years old .

Kappa Delta ( " KD " ), a national sorority, colonized the Eta Xi chapter on the Dartmouth campus in 2009. The Dartmouth Panhellenic Council approved the sorority on May 25, 2009. The Council considered the large pledge classes at other sororities on campus in deciding to authorize another sorority. The sorority recruited its first members in the summer of 2009, and Kappa Delta held its first formal rush during the fall 2009 academic term, offering membership bids to 37 women. Kappa Delta 's new 23 @-@ bedroom house at 1 Occom Ridge was built over the 2013 ? 2014 school year and was completed in the fall of 2014. K? has one of the strongest sisterhoods on Dartmouth College campus, and the sisterhood is involved in numerous philanthropic endeavors, including working with the Girl Scouts of United States of America, Prevent Child Abuse America, The New Hampshire Children 's Trust, and the Confidence Coalition . Each term , ?? also participates in a " You Make Me Smile " campaign where sisters write encouraging messages on balloons and hand them out across campus to raise spirits before finals week. Alpha Theta was founded as a local fraternity named lota Sigma Upsilon on March 3, 1920, by a group of seven students. In 1921 the fraternity received a charter as the Alpha Theta chapter of Theta Chi. John Sloan Dickey, later president of the college, joined the fraternity in 1928 and was elected house president only two weeks later, while still a pledge. Nine brothers of Theta Chi died in a tragic accident on the morning of February 25, 1934, when the metal chimney of the building 's old coal furnace blew out in the night and the residence filled with poisonous carbon monoxide gas. Alpha Theta was one of the first collegiate fraternities in the United States to break from its national organization over civil rights issues. In 1951, while Dickey served as president of the college, the student body passed a resolution calling on all fraternities to eliminate racial discrimination from their constitutions . The Theta Chi national organization 's constitution contained a clause limiting membership in fraternity to " Caucasians " only . On April 24 , 1952 , the members of the Dartmouth chapter voted unanimously to stop recognizing the racial clause in Theta Chi 's constitution . Upon learning that the Dartmouth delegation to Theta Chi 's national convention later that year planned to raise questions about the clause , the Alpha Theta chapter was derecognized by the national organization on July 25 , 1952 . The house reincorporated as a local fraternity and adopted the name Alpha Theta . Alpha Theta was also one of the first all @-@ male fraternities to admit female members . In 1972 , Dartmouth admitted the first class of female students and officially became a coeducational institution . Alpha Theta also voted to become coeducational .  = = The Tabard (???) = = =

The Tabard at Dartmouth College was founded in 1857 as a local fraternity for students in the Chandler Scientific School named Phi Zeta Mu. In 1893, as the Chandler School was absorbed by Dartmouth, the house sought to associate itself with a national fraternity and was granted a charter as the Eta Eta chapter of Sigma Chi national fraternity. In April 1960, the Dartmouth chapter of Sigma Chi became the third fraternity on campus to dissociate from its national organization . following the 1954 Undergraduate Council referendum requiring fraternities to amend its national charters to end discrimination against minorities or go " local " . [ 92 ] The fraternity officially chose to use the name The Tabard, but retained use of the Greek letters?? for its local corporation use to include all living and deceased members of both the chapter 's national affiliation and the new local independent organization. The new name was inspired by The Tabard, a fictitious London inn described in the General Prologue of The Canterbury Tales by Geoffrey Chaucer. The Tabard was one of five Greek organizations at Dartmouth to become coeducational and admit women pledges when the college began admitting women students in 1972. The organization unofficially uses the Greek letters Sigma Epsilon Chi (???), having inserted an "E" between the Sigma and Chi on a wrought iron railing above the front door of their residence. Prominent alumni of the Tabard include : its first president Stephen W. Bosworth , class of 1961 - U.S. Ambassador to South Korea , the Philippines, and Tunisia, as well as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Dartmouth College; Gordon Campbell, class of 1970 - the 34th Premier of British Columbia; and Aisha Tyler, class of 1992 - an American actress, comedian, and author.

Phi Tau was founded at Dartmouth College in 1905 as the Tau Chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa. While the national fraternity proved to be an early leader among its peers in the area of non @-@ discrimination, mid @-@ 1950s Tau Chapter leaders led the demand for such post @-@ war era changes. The pace of change was contentious: Phi Sigma Kappa had previously had occasional foreign student members at many chapters. Unlike other fraternities, it had also welcomed Catholics and Jews at a time when most fraternity members were Protestant. But it did not yet welcome Blacks. In a reactionary response to a short @-@ lived policy that limited pledging of Black students between 1952 ? 56 , and in a move that allowed it to avoid unpaid debts to the national, Tau broke with Phi Sigma Kappa and reformed itself as Phi Tau on March 7, 1956, naming the national fraternity as racist. Yet ironically, the Dartmouth chapter won the debate over the issue : the same discriminatory policy that caused Tau to withdraw was itself rescinded by the national fraternity at its Summer Convention just two months later, leaving Phi Sigma Kappa chapters free to pledge Black members . There has been no reconciliation , even though both groups remain progressive. Today, Phi Tau prides itself on its progressiveness; when the house constitution was rewritten in 1956, references to gender were deliberately excluded, making the house officially coeducational even before Dartmouth College accepted women as students. Phi Tau is the only coeducational Greek organization at Dartmouth that has always had female members since first admitting them , and was the first Greek house at Dartmouth to add sexual orientation to its non @-@ discrimination clause . Members of Phi Tau refer to one another as "brothers " regardless of gender . The fraternity is known for its quarterly " Milque and Cookies " party , featuring thousands of homemade cookies and milkshakes . Phi Tau completely replaced their residence hall in 2002 , at a cost of $ 1 @.@ 8 million , funded in part by the sale of 1 @,@ 675 square metres ( 0 @.@ 4 acres ) of land to the college .
